OK thank you. And then is it ok to reiterate earlier statement to answer his second question? So I'll go back with:

For your background to reiterate why we engaged with City of Melbourne:

To our earlier point in our statement Australia Post takes its obligation to deliver mail as addressed seriously, and given the unique nature of the circumstances – namely with site access being denied, due to the units being under lockdown and under the control of DHHS and City of Melbourne - met this obligation when we delivered all mail to authorised officers at the site control centre.

Upon subsequently being made aware that the items did not reach their ultimate destination, we raised it with the City of Melbourne and engaged with the sender in good faith to resolve the matter.

Commonwealth laws prohibit any conduct which interferes with the mail, and make it clear that Australia Post is obliged to complete the delivery of Australians' mail to the designated address.

It is not appropriate for Australia Post to release private correspondence with the City of Melbourne.

Hello,

Just re the 2GB follow up query below it seems The Age has already published the email/correspondence he asks for, however I don't think we can publicly release it, but let me know if you think otherwise.

Then his second question is already answered by our earlier statement, so shall we just respond with our earlier messaging on background only with:

Hi Paul,

For your background to reiterate why we engaged with City of Melbourne:

To our earlier point in our statement Australia Post takes its obligation to deliver mail as addressed seriously, and given the unique nature of the circumstances – namely with site access being denied, due to the units being under lockdown and under the control of DHHS and City of Melbourne - met this obligation when we delivered all mail to authorised officers at the site control centre.

We won't be releasing private correspondence between Australia Post and City of Melbourne.

Thanks. Will you be releasing the correspondence between Ms Holgate and the City Council? Why did she write to them?

Expecting this email? If suspicious forward it to secureatpost@auspost.com.au

Good morning,

Wondering if Ms Holgate would be available for an interview to discuss this?

If not, is there a comment/statement?

Thanks.
